Children who are ill

It is at the Manager's discretion whether or not to allow a child into playgroup if they are showing signs of illness, even if there is no exclusion period or if this is after any exclusion period has passed or if a doctor has stated that they are not infectious. The Manager will need to take into account the demeanor of the child and whether they are well enough to participate in playgroup activities. They must also consider whether allowing a sick child in playgroup would affect the staff to child ratios, as children who are unwell may require continual one to one attention. If we allow a child showing signs of illness or who has recently recovered from an illness into playgroup then we will monitor them regularly and will contact parent/s to ask that they are collected if they become unwell again.

Illness Outbreaks

If there is an outbreak of an illness in playgroup then the Manger will consult with the local Health Protection Unit for advice. We may decide to exclude children in order to control an outbreak even where this is not listed in our normal exclusion policy.

Infectious Illness reporting

If a child has an illness we would request that the parent/s contact the playgroup as soon as possible so we can communicate this to all staff and parents, as well as Health Protection and Ofsted if it is a notifiable disease. This is particularly important in case a child has come into contact with a pregnant staff member or parent.

This policy was adopted by St Thomas' Playgroup on October 2017 and will be reviewed on October 2018
